

THIS PAGE IS THE CHILDREN'S OWN, SO THE EVENING LEDGER PHOTOGRAPHERS FIND

A PICNIC ON SPACIOUS BELMONT PLATEAU ATTRACTS THOUSANDS
Some of the juvenile merry-makers from the Odd Fellows' Orphanage are here pictured.

A GIANT MELON UNDER PIGMY GUARD
Master William Parvin Bramlett keeps watchful eye upon a forty-seven-pound watermelon received at the home of his parents, 5026 Irving street, from his grandfather in Oxford, Miss.

"ONCE UPON A TIME, A LONG, LONG WHILE AGO—"
The gray-bearded veteran describes the days of his own boyhood to an interested and interesting audience.

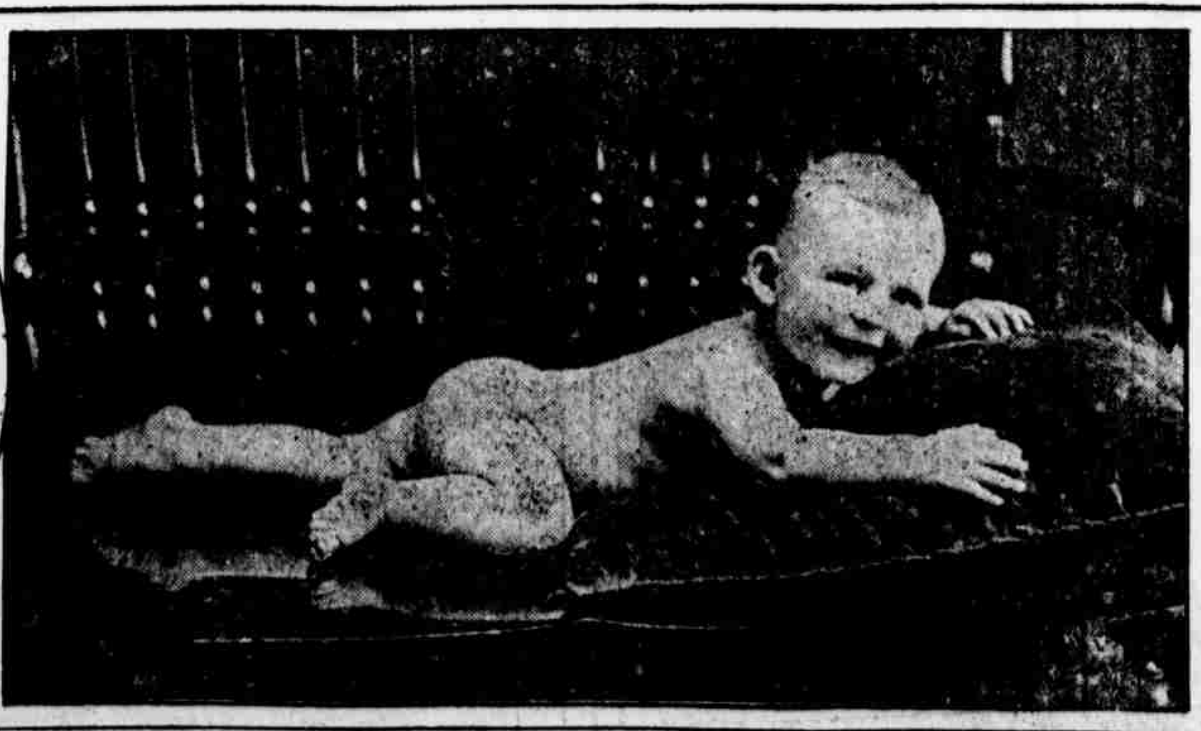

FEEDING THE PIGEONS ON THE CITY HALL PLAZA
A source of amusement to many youngsters that inculcates habits of humanity and care for birds and dumb animals.

PARENTS BRING CHILDREN TO KISS THE LIBERTY BELL
Removal of the protecting case affords unusual opportunity for personal contact with the sacred relic of the nation's independence.

MEMBER OF THE "RAINBOW DIVISION"
Her name is Jane Blackwell and she lives at Riverton, N. J., she informs curious questioners.

A SPRY AND HUSKY WEST PHILADELPHIAN
Six and one-half months ago George Beach Fox arrived at 6013 Catharine street, where he has reigned since in undisputed sway.

A PAIR OF GERMANTOWN "HIGHWAYMEN"
Florence and Jack Royer are two members of a youthful band that tribute to their Red Cross playmate who from